

GreenPower

Reduce • Replace • Offset

Harnessing the power of renewable sources to reduce the greenhouse gas emissions created from your business' energy consumption.

Together we can make a difference.™

Your investment in a cleaner, brighter future.

Electricity generation currently accounts for 35% of Australia's total greenhouse gas emissions and is continuing to grow. By adopting Origin GreenPower, you can reduce the greenhouse gas emissions created from your energy consumption and contribute directly to the development of new renewable energy generation.

What is Origin GreenPower?

GreenPower is Government accredited renewable electricity sourced from the sun, wind, water and waste. Unlike standard electricity, which is produced from fossil fuels such as coal, oil and gas, the generation of renewable electricity doesn't produce greenhouse gas emissions.

How does Origin GreenPower work?

Each megawatt hour (MWh) of GreenPower purchased saves around one tonne of CO₂ emissions from the atmosphere.* When you choose GreenPower, we purchase the equivalent amount of electricity you have chosen from accredited renewable generation sources. Not only does this mean you are preventing greenhouse gas emissions at the time of generation, but your choice also drives new investment in the renewable energy industry.

Why is accreditation so important?

Origin GreenPower is Government accredited, which means that it has been produced according to stringent environmental standards and sourced from renewable generation built after 1 January 1997.

Our GreenPower products are also independently audited and publicly reported every year, so you can rest assured that your business is directly reducing greenhouse gas emissions and helping to develop a robust renewable energy industry in Australia.

What are the business benefits of choosing Origin GreenPower?

By choosing Origin GreenPower, your business will benefit from:

- Active and direct reduction of greenhouse gas emissions
- Positioning as a responsible corporate citizen
- Peace of mind that our products are Government accredited and meet strict compliance requirements
- Potential use of the GreenPower logo in your PR and marketing materials to promote your decision to become more sustainable
- Protection of our environment, now and for future generations

*Actual amount depends on the mix of power generation in your State.
