

Limited Warranty for Delta Products

Our products come with guarantees that cannot be excluded in the Australian Consumer Law. You are entitled to a replacement of the product or refund for a major failure and for compensation for any other reasonably foreseeable loss or damage. You are also entitled to have the products repaired or replaced if the goods fail to be of acceptable quality and the failure does not amount to a major failure (see 'Major Failures').

1. Warranty Period

- a) This warranty is for a period of 126 months from the date of manufacture of the product as detailed on the product or the product manual or 120 months from the date of installation, whichever occurs first ('Warranty Period').
- b) This warranty is the complete warranty for the product and supersedes all other warranties and representations regarding the product made by Delta and its related bodies corporate (as this term is defined in the Corporations Law) or their Local Agents
- c) The benefits under this warranty are in addition to other rights and remedies available to the customer under law in relation to the products to which the above warranty relates.
- d) Delta reserves the right to change the terms of this Delta Warranty which (a) enable Delta to offer enhanced warranty services to customers, (b) enable compliance with legislative, regulatory or other changes at law, or (c) if technology changes require consequential changes to these terms.

2. Major Failures

A 'major failure' occurs where:

- a) the product acquired by the customer would not have been acquired by a reasonable consumer fully acquainted with the nature and extent of the failure; or
- b) the product departs in one or more significant respects from description or sample if supplied by description or sample; or
- c) the product is substantially unfit for a purpose for which products of the same kind are commonly supplied and they cannot, easily and within a reasonable time, be remedied to make them fit for such a purpose; or
- d) the product is unfit for a disclosed purpose that was made known to Delta or a person who made any prior negotiations before the purchase was made and the cannot, easily and within a reasonable time, be remedied to make the product fit for such a purpose; or
- e) the product is not of acceptable quality because it is unsafe.

3. Non-Major Failures

A 'non-major failure' occurs where the product does not comply with the product manual supplied with the product (which may also be made available by Delta on its website at the following web address:

<http://www.solar-inverter.com/ap/en/support-contact.htm>

or as otherwise notified by Delta) but does not otherwise result in a major failure of the product.

4. Limited Warranty Procedure

To make the claim, in the first instance the customer must contact directly the original seller or installer of the system as they will advise the customer of any extended level of cover the customer may have in addition to standard limited warranty.

When submitting a claim, the customer should always provide to the original seller or installer the serial number of the inverter along with the original purchase invoice, date of purchase/installation and the error message that is displayed in the window located on the front of the inverter

If necessary, get in contact with Delta. The procedure for a warranty claim can be coordinated with Delta employee at the below mentioned address in section 5.

If the product is replaced, the remainder of the Warranty Period will be transferred to the replacement product supplied by Delta. In such an event, the original warranty as documented by Delta will continue to apply for the original Warranty Period from when the product was originally purchased by the customer.

5. Limited Warranty Conditions

Delta Energy Systems Australia reserves the right that products subject for repair will be replaced with refurbished goods of the same type under the following conditions:
